About Us

ADR, Drafting & Literary Society

ADR, Drafting and Literary Society (ADLS) is an academic body which is constituted in 2022.

It is a dedicated society which aims to provide a platform for students to enhance requisite skills in fields of Alternative Dispute Resolution, Legal Drafting, and Literary.

The Society conducts training programs and workshops, honing the drafting and argumen-tation skills of nascent legal minds. It organizes through its faculty and student body, various competitions, thereby enabling students to participate in external competitions organized both nationally and internationally and bring laurels to the University. In 2023 ADR DRAFTING & LITERARY SOCIETY has successfully organised The 1st National Law Fest of Lucknow University. ADR (Alternative Dispute Resolution) refers to a set of methods and techniques used to resolve disputes or conflicts outside of the traditional court system. It includes various processes such as mediation, arbitration, negotiation, and conciliation. ADR is often preferred over litigation because it tends to be faster, less formal, and more cost-effective, offering parties greater control over the resolution of their disputes.

Drafting, in a legal context, is the process of creating and preparing legal documents, contracts, agreements, and other written materials. Drafting requires careful attention to detail, precision in language, and a deep understanding of relevant laws and regulations. The goal of drafting is to create clear, enforceable documents that accurately represent the intentions and agreements of the parties involved.

A Literary Society is an organization or group dedicated to the appreciation, discussion, and promotion of literature and literary works. Such societies often host events, book clubs, workshops, and lectures related to literature, providing a platform for individuals to engage in literary discussions, share their creative writing, and foster a sense of community among literature enthusiasts. Literary societies can focus on specific genres, time periods, or authors, allowing members to explore their literary interests in-depth.
