Pathways to Sustainable Peace and Justice

About Nyaya Shastra

Nyaya Shastra functions as a catalytic nexus facilitating the actualization of jurisprudential excellence via an integrative matrix of investigative scholarship, pedagogical enhancement, awareness facilitation, and competitive dynamism. Our organizational ethos is characterized by an unwavering commitment to the advancement of juridical knowledge and discursive engagement.

Our foundational objective involves the creation of a vibrant, tripartite communitas encompassing juridical enthusiasts, scholars, professionals and students, thereby fostering an ecosystem conducive to transformative growth, innovation, and excellence within the legal sphere.

Ultimately, our visionary agenda entails the establishment of Nyaya Shastra a paramount, interdisciplinary platform synthesizing legal research, education, and awareness, thereby transcending the historico-theoretical dichotomy between academic jurisprudence and pragmatic jurisprudence.

About the Event

The International Day of Peace, observed annually on 21st September, serves as a vital reminder of our shared responsibility to strengthen peace, justice, and cooperation in a world increasingly marked by fragmentation and conflict.

To commemorate this day, Nyaya Shastra, an organisation dedicated to legal education, advancing legal research, legal aid and meaningful dialogue, is organizing an Online Symposium to reflect upon the crucial role of law, governance, and collective human effort in building sustainable peace and justice.

This symposium aspires to create an inclusive intellectual space that brings together scholars, practitioners, policymakers, peacebuilders, and students from across the globe. Through insightful discussions and exchange of ideas, it seeks to explore innovative pathways for fostering global solidarity and envisioning a more just and peaceful world.

Objectives

- To commemorate the International Day of Peace by fostering dialogue on peace and justice.
- To reimagine peace in a world divided by conflict, inequality, and injustice.
- To bridge law and humanity, exploring how governance, rights, and justice can serve as tools for solidarity.
- To amplify diverse voices—from scholars to youth, from policymakers to grassroots peacebuilders—creating a truly inclusive dialogue.
- To move beyond rhetoric, generating fresh perspectives and practical pathways for sustainable peace.
- To inspire global citizenship, nurturing a shared responsibility for justice, harmony, and collective well-being.
